THE DUKE OF ARGYLL, in his "Impressions of America" in Fraser's Magazine for January, says:

"I doubt if there exists anywhere in London or in any capital of the Old World, such an establishment as that of TIFFANY, in New York, for the sale of Jewelry. It is an establishment, too, it must be added, not more remarkable for its enormous extent than for the admirable taste of its designs."

"The advantage of International Exhibitions to the trade of the United States is signally shown in the appointment of Messrs. TIFFANY & CO. as "Jewelers and Silversmiths to H. R. H. the Prince of Wales." The warrant for this distinction has just been issued to the firm from Marlborough House. It is the first honor of the kind ever conferred upon American Tradesmen."—New York Tribune, Jan. 1st, 1880.

R. DUNLAP & CO.

Amongst such a number of excellent hatters it is a delicate question to decide as to which one is the leading hatter of the country ; but when a firm reaches such a position that the entire hat trade sits with eyes and ears open in order to gain, if possible, some idea in advance of what its Spring block is to be, it must be conceded that they have strong claim to the title. Such is the position of DUNLAP & Co. at the present time, and the number and variety of stiff hats that have already been shown as "DUNLAP'S FALL STYLE" is simply wonderful. The firm are entitled to credit for securing and maintaining such a position in the trade that their style, when it is issued, is sure to sell.

This position, honorable as it is, is subject to many annoyances, one of the greater of which is the endeavor on the part of other manufacturers to gain a surreptitious knowledge of the proposed style, which, when it is obtained, will be shown all over the country before the original producers can cover the ground, and sold of course on the strength of their reputation,

GRANNIS, the well-known art critic, very truly said : "There is as much artistic beauty in one of DUNLAP'S hats as there is in one of Meissonier's paintings."

MESSRS. DUNLAP & Co. have reason to feel proud of the position they have attained in a representative American industry.—Clothier and Hatter.

SILVER.

THE marvelous "Bonanza" in Nevada, and the more recent discoveries of the "Carbonates" in Colorado, quite throw into the shade the "Wondrous Tale of Alroy" itself, and we believe there is very good reason to accept them as much more solidly founded on fact. This being the case, there ought to be no reason why the "raw material" of silver should not, in the near future, be accessible and available at a more advantageous rate in this country than anywhere else in the world.

It by no means diminishes our satisfaction in this prospect to know that contemporaneously with the development of our vast natural resources of this sort, there is going on in the United States a scarcely less important development of our artistic resources for utilizing these resources in the highest and most civilizing spirit. A visit to the silver-rooms of Mr. THEODORE B. STARR (of late firm of Starr & Marcus), No. 206 Fifth avenue, in this city, will show that if we are to become as familiar with silver as were the Incas of Peru, we shall also be relatively as skilled as they in making it inhere in the æsthetic and domestic culture of our people. Nor is this a light thing. For when the Spanish invaders entered the realm of the Incas the æsthetic industries of Peru were at a higher point, as the poor remains of them even now show, than those of Spain herself. Silver was wrought into utensils and ornaments then in Peru with a taste and wealth of fancy unknown not only to the Spaniards of the sixteenth century, but to the English and the American silversmiths of the first half of the 19th century. All that we are happily changing. The forms, the finish, and the decorations in repoussé, in appliqué, and inlaid work of the silverware now daily shown in such salesrooms as those we have mentioned would have merited the worshipful approbation of those noble artists in silver, the London master goldsmiths of the age of Elizabeth themselves. Master George Heriot would not have disowned them. There is a story of an old European gourmet, who travelled in the interior of the country some years ago, and came back broken-hearted to New York, weeping, fairly, to find, as he said, "what noble meat God had sent America, and what infernal cooks the de'il had sent after it." Let us be thankful that the shining treasures of the Sierra Nevada and Rocky Mountains are likely to fall into more worthy hands.—From the New York Daily Commercial Bulletin, March 20, 1880.

THE GREAT JOURNAL OF ART,

L'ART,

AN ILLUSTRATED REVIEW.

EUGÈNE VÉRON.

"SIEMPRE ADELANTE."

ISSUED in three-month volumes of between 300 and 400 pages each, handsomely printed on heavy, toned paper, illustrated with several hundred Engravings on Wood, fac-similes, etc., from Drawings and Pictures by Celebrated Artists, examples of Antique and Modern Sculpture, Objects of Art Industry, in all its branches. Also, a series of superb full-page Etchings, by the best living etchers, from the more noticeable pictures in the current exhibitions. The year's issues form four (4) volumes, Royal folio (17½ x 12 inches).

PRICE—In Paper Covers, Uncut, - - - - - Per An., $32 00
" In Extra Cloth, Gilt Top, Uncut, - - - - - " 40 00
" In Half Red Morocco (Jansen Style), Gilt Top, - - - - - " 60 00
  Payable on Delivery of the Quarterly Volumes.

"We Belong to no School, and Reject no Style. We Fear, above all, Routine, Conventionality, Copyism—All that is Constrained, All that lacks Individuality and Sincerity."

ALREADY entering its seventh year, the now world-famous journal, L'ART, has little need to call attention to itself, as if its candidacy for public suffrage were in any way doubtful or subject to distrust. The universally favorable opinion of the best judges has placed it on a pedestal far higher than any heretofore attained by an art periodical.

The chief striking peculiarity which attracts the eye is its grand folio page of 12 by 17 inches. To give a first mention to this merely material consideration is by no means idle, since it is this unusual dimension which permits the army of etchers working for the journal to display the full dignity of their art. Such plates as "The Portal of the Ducal Palace in Venice" (by LITOUX), or "The Uninewed Princes of Jumièges" (by GAUJEAN, after LUMINOIS), or "The Watering-place" (by WALTNER, after TROYON), or "The Halt" (by LALAUZE, after MEISSONIER), or "Louis del Rio" (by GAUJEAN, after ANTONIO MORO)—plates simply mentioned among the host published during the last half-year of 1880—could not have appeared in a smaller periodical, nor could their subjects have received adequate treatment on an inferior scale.

L'ART is, in fact, the casket consecrated to the best genius of the modern etcher. No other publication approaches it in the subtlety and art-feeling of its contributors in aquafortis. While the skilled etchers of France maintain a preponderance in its pages, there are selections of surprising merit and of refreshing novelty of style from Italy, Spain, England and Germany. Sixty or seventy of these magnificent plates in a year, by artists selected with a prodigal indifference to every consideration but that of superiority, make of L'ART a repository for what is simply the highest genius of the century, as expressed in the medium of aquafortis.

The illustration of the picture exhibitions will particularly receive the editor's attention for 1881. The Paris Salon, the British and Grosvenor Gallery exhibitions, and those of Belgium, Munich and Italy, will be illustrated with a lavish wealth of etchings and fac-simile sketches, and explained by writers native to the countries where they are held.

The etching-needles of artists most celebrated in their specialty—such as WALTNER, GAUCHEREL, GREUX, GAUJEAN, CHAUVEL, RAMUS, WILSON, LALAUZE, RENOARD, and several others—have been faithful allies and strong auxiliaries in the past, and will not be found lacking in the future. Plates by several of these experts are already done and printed, and await distribution among the pages of coming numbers of L'ART. Other etchers of conspicuous talent, representing that new school which it is the pride and ambition of the journal to have formed, and to continue forming, will be granted the opportunity of exhibition from time to time.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

—PREMIUM PLATE—

Offered Gratuitously to each Subscriber to L'ART for 1881.

The liberal custom which has distributed valuable PREMIUMS to the subscribers for former years, and which has already dispensed without charge such masterpieces as the etchings after Makart's "Entry of Charles V. into Antwerp," and Fortuny's "Academicians Choosing a Model," is continued for the present season.

A Magnificent Etching by E. CHAMPOLLION,

—AFTER A—

PAINTING BY A. CASANOVA,

Entitled "UN COIN DANS LE JARDIN."

A brilliant and piquant subject of the Spanish-Roman School, representing the pious and platonic flirtation of a Spanish Moza and a Capuchin Monk.

The plate is 18½ by 15 inches, and is esteemed by the best judges as a peculiarly happy rendering of the picture. The impressions are printed in the most careful manner, by Lienard, of Paris.

Subsequent volumes to be paid for as delivered, in quarterly installments; or, if preferred, the subscription may be paid entirely in advance. No subscription received for a less period than one year. The volumes are delivered at subscribers' expense.

WHAT THE BOSTON GAZETTE SAYS.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN affecting exclusive fashions in dress express themselves as enchanted with the styles of Hats and Bonnets which have been brought out this spring by Dunlap, the famous New York hatter. His establishment in Fifth Avenue is a favorite resort for the best people, for they know choice headgear not to be found elsewhere awaits their selection. For years Dunlap was simply a man's hatter par excellence, but lately Ladies' Millinery, of a refined and elegant order, has been added to the masculine attractions, and with perfect success. As much taste is required to build a man's hat as to construct a lady's bonnet, and there seems no good reason why the same amount of talent should not be employed for both. Certainly Dunlap & Co. have proved it satisfactorily the case to hundreds of fashionable patrons. The ladies express entire approval of the exquisite confections imported from Paris, and are most enthusiastic in praise of the dainty millinery designed especially for them in the establishment. The arrangement of the store is very convenient, the two departments being kept separate, and the sex of the shopper alone determining which is the more fascinating. The ladies' is presided over by an accomplished judge of feminine millinery, whose taste and judgment will be at once acknowledged by the seeker after some unique design for reception or driving. In the gentlemen's department is seen a great variety of styles, one of the handsomest of which is the silk hat to be worn the coming season. It is of a more graceful shape than ordinary, the brim rolled up at the sides, with a well curved crown of medium height, and the finish and workmanship in perfect keeping with its elegance of style. Bostonians passing their Easter holidays in New York are advised to visit Dunlap's, and to view these choice fashions for the fair as well as the sterner sex, as they are something to see, and, once seen, to purchase.--Boston Gazette.

"Dunlap's" Stores are 178 and 180 Fifth Avenue, and down town store, convenient for Brooklyn patrons, 179 Broadway, near Cortlandt Street.

The demand for these celebrated hats in the West has induced the firm to open a branch store in Chicago, under the Palmer House, which will rival the New York store in its elegant fittings.

NOTICE.

Grannis, the late lamented art critic of the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser, once very truly said: "There is as much artistic merit displayed in the manufacture of one of DUNLAP's hats as there is in one of Meissonier's paintings."

The high standard which the art of manufacturing hats has attained, renders necessary the exercise of a refined taste, as well as the highest order of talent and skill in designing the shapes and manufacturing the same.

That a bonnet or hat may make or mar the effect of a lady's or gentleman's toilet is unquestionably true, therefore the wisdom of making your selection at an establishment of recognized merit, like DUNLAP's, is apparent.

Their hats are intended for that class of people of refined taste who appreciate the merits of the goods, and, if judges of the materials used, will find the prices reasonable, if not lower than are asked for inferior hats elsewhere.

The arrangement of their stores is very convenient, the two departments being kept separated. The ladies' is presided over by an accomplished judge of feminine millinery, whose taste and judgment will at once be acknowledged by the seeker after some unique design for receptions or driving. In the gentlemen's department will be found the same polite attention and a large assortment of elegant hats to select from, of foreign as well as domestic makes.

"DUNLAP's" stores are 178 & 180 Fifth Avenue, near 23d Street, and down-town store, convenient for Brooklyn patrons, at 179 Broadway, near Cortlandt Street.
